

Devora Neumark

1 février ·

So, here is what I'm noticing (without any judgements as to why this is): the reduction in live interpersonal connections is mirrored in a reduction in the number of people who've engaged in some way with my post yesterday (Tuesday) about my first full day of crocheting completed here in Brétigny-sur-Orge.

J'aime

Commenter

9

Céline Poulin Ce qui est intéressant c'est le café, pensé pourtant traditionnellement et peut-être romantiquement comme le lieu de la conversation.

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 03:02

Karen Elaine Spencer devora, i think the words "i seem to be invisible" can be read as a lament... or not. depending perhaps on how people feel about being/feeling invisible. i think we equate visibility with power.

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 05:29

Devora Neumark Interesting Karen! I have no attachment either way to the invisibility or visibility: I believe that Self needs to show up and be present in both instances! Hence my interest in how closely this experience seems to be relating to the Richard Miller's Yoga Nidra prompt: "feel yourself as this unchanging presence that you truly are in which everything is appearing and dissolving".

J'aime · Répondre · 1 février, 12:49

Karen Elaine Spencer me i often prefer what others would call "invisibility" -although no one is invivisbe! unless we have the harry potter invisibility cloak haha!!

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 13:00

Nancy G Boulmay I also notice less commenting, personal self disclosure and may I ask what ever happened to art-what use to be a common link before the great chaos and FB fracturing. Shutting down, freezing is a form of survival, just like fight or flight.

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 08:48

Devora Neumark One of the many reasons that I continue to post (and will update my posts following today's crocheting): keeping connectivity through open-hearted compassion seems vital, especially now!

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 12:52

Votre réponse...

Pam Patterson so many of us are distracted right now with Trump's immigration and travel executive action and the Canadian govt's response... but am loving hearing about your performance ! We need that kind of human connectiondon't always see it on my news feed & don't do FB every day/week and have to go to your FB site to follow...

J'aime · Répondre · 4 · 1 février, 10:32

Devora Neumark Thanks Pam for your reply! I've been following the events unfolding in the US and Quebec/Canada quite closely and really appreciate the sentiment you express!!

J'aime · Répondre · 1 février, 12:54

Votre réponse...

Andrea Morrison I read it Devora. It made sense

J'aime · Répondre · 1 · 1 février, 10:59

Devora Neumark Glad you think so!

J'aime · Répondre · 1 février, 12:54

Beth Blackmore maybe you need a third colour for social media interactions ...

J'aime · Répondre · 6 · 1 février, 21:28

Beth Blackmore a répondu · 2 réponses

Devora Neumark the only problem is that I can't type and crochet at the same time 😊

J'aime · Répondre · 2 février, 23:35

